

Overview

Midwest Pride: United in Community is a three-day summit hosted by Center on Halsted. The summit will unite members of Midwest LGBTQ+ organizations to share knowledge, resources, and collaborate to address the pressing challenges facing the LGBTQ+ community. The summit is open to CEOs, directors, managers, coordinators, students, board members, and any individual representing Midwest LGBTQ-focused organizations.

Participants

Registration for Midwest Pride: United in Community will open on February 10th. Up to 100 participants will represent LGBTQ+ serving organizations throughout the Midwest, including fellow community centers, and other health-focused organizations serving youth and trans individuals.

Program

To maximize the impact of the event, interested organizations were surveyed on topics posing the most significant challenges for LGBTQ+ organizations.

Results from the survey will inform the summit's program, and include:

- Fundraising strategies
- Supporting rural communities
- Policy advocacy
- Youth outreach and Trans healthcare

How Can I Get Involved?
